LONDON, Jan. 21.—Lytton Strachey, the distinguished author of "Eminent Victorians" and "Queen Victoria," which created a "new" biography, died today at his home in Inkpen, Berkshire, at the age of 51. He had been ill since November with ulcerative colitis.

First Book Hardly Noticed.

Lytton Strachey's works, with the exception of an early textbook on French literature, exemplified what has come to be known as the new biography. It signified, perhaps, more than that, for the author played no small part in bringing about the change from the old-fashioned tributes, sponsored mainly by sentiment, to the more realistic portraits current in the present decade. He was one of the early discoverers of the usages of irreverence.

Mr. Strachey was born on March 1, 1880. His family and Trinity College, Cambridge University, provided a literary background. When he was graduated from the university he grew a red beard, his most famous personal characteristic, and settled down to letters. "Landmarks in French Literature," which was his first effort, created no stir at all. Then he discovered Victoria and her
